Guns, gore and all kinds of gratuitousness take over Manhattan when the New York Asian Film Festival celebrates its 10th year July 1-14. In conjunction with the festival, the Film Society of Lincoln Center and Japan Society, we've got tickets to give away to three of the featured films!

We're offering two pairs of tickets to each of the following:

• BEDEVILLED, Jang Chul-soo's brutal all-female revenge thriller, Wednesday, July 6 at 8:45 p.m. and Sunday, July 10 at 7 p.m.

• HORNY HOUSE OF HORROR, the directorial debut of MUTANT GIRLS SQUAD scripter Jun Tsugita about babes and blood in a brothel (see the absolutely not-safe-for-work trailer below), Friday, July 1 at 12 midnight and Tuesday, July 12 at 10:15 p.m.

• BATTLE ROYALE (pictured above), a special screening of Kinji Fukasaku's notorious cult classic in which schoolkids are forced into life-and-death combat, Friday, July 8 at 9:15 p.m.

BEDEVILLED and HOUSE will be shown at Lincoln Center's Walter Reade Theater (165 West 65th Street, between Amsterdam Avenue and Broadway), while ROYALE will screen at Japan Society (333 East 47th Street). To enter, send an e-mail to FANGORIAScreening@gmail.com and be sure to put "Asian Festival" in the subject line and include your full name and e-mail address. You can list up to three screenings you'd like to attend (you must include preferred dates/times for BEDEVILLED or HOUSE). Deadline for entries is 12 noon on Monday, June 27; winners will be notified via e-mail by noon on Tuesday, June 28, and tickets held at the theater box offices in their name. For the full Asian Fest schedule, click
here
, and see its Facebook page
here
.

Once again, this trailer is not safe for work…

{youtube}-6bVUra0Rvs{/youtube}