Upstate New York moviemaker Glen Baisley continues his series of interconnected horror features with FAIRVIEW FALLS, which will have a free premiere screening next month. Read on for the details and to see an exclusive clip, as well as the trailer.

Baisley provides the FAIRVIEW synopsis: “It’s the summer after graduation when a small circle of friends set off into the woods on a dare, and make their way to the creek where a series of ritualistic animal murders has been discovered. When they return from they woods, they are not alone, and when the son of the town mafia boss is murdered, it sets off a chain of events that leads to the discovery of a new threat forged by the most sinister evil Fairview Falls has ever seen.” The movie stars Joseph Policastro, Kerri Taylor, THE BLOOD SHED’s Mike Lane, Joe Lauria from Baisley’s THE TENEMENT and SINS OF THE FATHER, Brett Fallon (soon to be seen in Ted Bohus’ HELL ON EARTH) and Morgan LaRocca (seen in the excerpt below with Don Deich). It also features KNOCK KNOCK’s Sal Sirchia and brief apperances by Fango fave Debbie Rochon and (full disclosure) yours truly; Brian Spears created the makeup FX.

The premiere takes place Saturday, November 5 at 11 p.m. at Poughkeepsie, NY’s Silver Cinemas South Hills 8 (1895 South Road). Admission is free but seating is limited on a first-come, first-served basis. RSVP for the screening here and find directions here , and learn more about FAIRVIEW FALLS at its Facebook page
.

{flv}Fairview_falls{/flv}

{youtube}GSctF-1ofhs{/youtube}