While FANGORIA RADIO is currently on hiatus, the folks at Sirius XM Satellite Radio have been running some of our best and bloodiest shows, and tonight it continues:

• After last fall's explosive and nail biting season of DEXTER, head back to where it all began and see what everyone's favorite forensics expert, C.S. Lee (who essays Vince Masuka) had to say about it.

• One of the genre's trademarks and most popular actors, Bill Moseley (THE DEVIL'S REJECTS, REPO! THE GENETIC OPERA, new 2001 MANIACS) brings all his manic energy and ensures that no matter what the topic, you'll be having a good time.

• What do horror fans love? Girls and Corpses, and Robert Rhine, who publishes the glossy mag of the same name, is on the show to tell you why you should give it a read.

You can listen to FANGORIA RADIO over the Internet for just $12.95 per month; for information and to sign up for Sirius XM, click here ! Or to sign up for a free seven-day pass to listen to FANGO RADIO and other great Sirius programming, go http://www.sirius.com/siriusinternetradio. You can also find a ton of great FANGO RADIO highlights on iTunes; these free audio clips are listed in the iTunes Store under the Podcasts tab, so simply search for FANGORIA. It has never been easier to get your horrifying fright fix!
