Written by Michael Gingold
Thursday, 21 February 2013 13:56

Ten years after its original release, THE MANSON FAMILY is returning to spread Charlie’s evil through theaters anew, and on Blu-ray for the first time. Read on for the release details and new poster.

Severin Films has announced that it is giving THE MANSON FAMILY, Jim VanBebber’s seriously disturbing exploration of Charles Manson and his murderous followers, big-screen bookings across the U.S. in March and April (see the current schedule below Stephen Romano’s poster art) in advance of the movie’s Blu-ray debut May 7. That disc will feature a host of fresh extras, including a new audio commentary by VanBebber, the filmmaker’s latest short GATOR GREEN, the uncut version of the previously censored documentary THE VANBEBBER FAMILY and lots more. Additional theaters and complete Blu-ray details will be coming shortly, so stay tuned!

March 22-23: Clay Theatre, San Francisco

March 22-23: Esquire Theatre, Denver

March 27: Boston Underground Film Festival, Brattle Theatre, Cambridge, MA

March 29-30: Landmark’s Sunshine Cinema, New York City

March 29-30: Alamo Drafthouse Vintage Park, Houston

March 29: Plaza Theatre, Atlanta

April 3: Granoff Center for the Arts, Providence, RI

April 5: Ritz Bourse, Philadelphia

April 5-6: Egyptian Theatre, Seattle

April 12: Logan Theatre, Chicago

April 12-13: Hi-Pointe Theatre, St. Louis

April 13: Cedar Lee Theatre, Cleveland

April 19-20: E Street Theatre, Washington, DC

April 19-20: Inwood Theatre, Dallas

April 21: Screenland Crossroads, Kansas City, MO

April 23: New Beverly Cinema, Los Angeles