
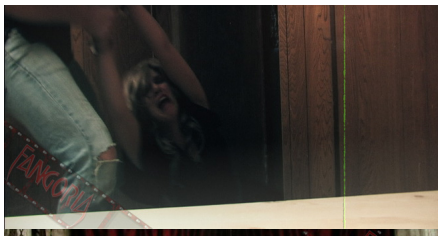
Fango heard from Michael Colburn, director of THE TOY BOX, the fact-based serial-killer thriller we first reported about on our newsblog . He sent along some exclusive photos (which you can see after the jump) with an update on how the Texas-based project is proceeding.

“The film is going great,” Colburn (pictured in the first photo with actress Maria Ruiz) tells us. “We recently finished filming on seperate weekends with scream queen Bianca Barnett [second, third and fourth photos] and local actress Julin [from THE FINAL, SWEATSHOP and BOGGY CREEK]. It was a blast! Both are hard workers and were committed to making the scenes their own. With the movie being based on a true story, it was amazing to see how much thought and time they put into the characterizations of these two women.”



[redacted] here [redacted]