Vamp me? No, VAMP U. The horror/comedy is headed to theaters and video in the next couple of months, and we’ve got more details and a first look at the final poster.

Level 33 Entertainment will send VAMP U into limited theatrical release and VOD February 12, followed by sell-through and rental DVD March 12. The disc will present the movie, which was written and directed by Matt Jespersen and Maclain Nelson and features AMERICAN GOTHIC and OFFICE SPACE’s Gary Cole in a supporting role, in 1.78:1 widescreen with 5.1 Surround sound, accompanied by deleted scenes.

The synopsis is as follows: “Wayne Gretzky [no relation, played by Adam Johnson] is a vampire with fangs that won’t grow. His ‘impotence’ began when he inadvertently killed Mary, the love of his life, 300 years ago. To take his mind off the pain, he teaches college history—who better than a guy who’s been around for centuries? Attempting to regain his full vampire powers, he enlists help from his friend and colleague, Dr. Levine [Cole]. But nothing works...that is, until a new semester brings freshman Chris Keller [Julie Gonzalo]—a dead ringer for his beloved Mary. They begin to have an affair, which quickly goes south when he accidentally turns Chris into a vampire and she becomes hell-bent on sucking every frat boy on campus dry! Now, as she leaves a bloody trail of destruction across campus—converting a sorority house full of coeds, including the irresistible Samantha [Alexis Knapp], to her vampire legion—Wayne is faced with the task of stopping her before they kill the entire student body!” Check out the trailer below the poster.
