

“AS NIGHT FALLS” update, exclusive trailer and new pics

Written by Michael Gingold

Thursday, 23 September 2010 11:37

---

We first told you here about a new ghostly chiller called AS NIGHT FALLS, from Pop Gun Pictures and Crown Productions. Now we've got a first look at the movie's trailer (past the jump at the bottom of the page) and a couple of new exclusive photos, as well as an update from writer/director Joe Davison—including news of its debut.

“I just received confirmation that AS NIGHT FALLS will be premiering on Saturday, October 9 at 8:30 at Orlando's Screampfest,” Davison, who also co-stars, tells us. “This film is already a huge success for me in the fact that it took almost five years of searching for funding, constant meetings, proposals and crashing through obstacles beyond measure to get it made. But in the end, thanks to Crown Productions, Dwight Cenac II, Rob Massetti, Josh Long, Stu McLaughlin and our beloved investors, we managed to complete the film. I owe them so much.”

AS NIGHT FALLS also stars Deneen Melody, Lily Cardone, Debbie Rochon, Cenac, Grace Chapman, Michael Ellison, Raine Brown and Jeremy King in the story of two sisters and their friends haunted and slaughtered by murderous spirits at a farmhouse. “This movie has so much to offer,” Davison says, “from crazy fight scenes with Deneen and Debbie to a one-of-a-kind van fight/chase/flying scene with Debbie and Dwight, where we had to suspend them both on harnesses while going 40 miles an hour. Debbie was so funny swinging back and forth on the harness between scenes; she was amazing. I pushed the actors to the brink: Deneen fighting a gang of zombies, Dwight with the midair fighting and Debbie with not only the action, but these miserable contact lenses that were killing her. Lily Cardone was great as well; she was so quick to understand the scenes and knew everyone's lines—especially mine. Grace Chapman, who played Amelia, the ghost girl, was fantastic! She brought a wide-eyed loneliness to the character that was truly heartfelt.”

“AS NIGHT FALLS” update, exclusive trailer and new pics

Written by Michael Gingold

Thursday, 23 September 2010 11:37

---

For more AS NIGHT FALLS visuals and info, see its official website here , Facebook page here
e
and MySpace page
here

{flv}anftrailer{/flv}

{jcomments on}