- Sony Pictures Home Entertainment has announced a DVD/Blu-ray date for THE ROAD (pictured), director John Hillcoat's adaptation of the Cormac McCarthy novel, set in a postapocalyptic future through which a father and his young son struggle to survive.

The bleak survival thriller hits disc May 25. No special features, if any, have yet been announced to accompany the movie, which stars Viggo Mortensen, Kodi Smit-McPhee, Charlize Theron, Robert Duvall and Guy Pearce. It'll be presented in anamorphic widescreen, with Dolby Digital 5.1 audio; retail price is $27.96 for the DVD, $34.95 for the Blu-ray.

- Fango got ahold of the details and cover art for Well Go USA's DVD release of GOTH, a dark Japanese thriller that arrives May 11. Directed and co-scripted by Gen Takahashi based on the novel by Otsuichi, the movie focuses on Tokyo high-schoolers Morion (Rin Takanashi) and Kamiyama (Kanata Hongo), who are fascinated with murder and human cruelty. They become obsessed with the case of a serial killer who has been slaying local young women, leaving their bodies on display with their hands amputated, and decide to track him down—not to stop him, but so they can get the first look at his crimes. The disc will also include a making-of segment and the original trailer, and retails for $19.98.

- DVD Active got the first look at cover art for Lionsgate Home Entertainment's disc releases of the Spierig Brothers' vampire epic DAYBREAKERS. Go here
