Want a Joe Hill signed "HORNS" bookplate?

Written by Allan Dart Wednesday, 16 February 2011 15:02

Joe Hill's HORNS will be out in trade paperback next month, and to promote it, the author is going to sign and doodle a 1,000 bookplates, and while supplies last, you can get yourself one.

The offer appeared on Joe Hill's website, and all you have to do is preorder a copy of the book, and send your proof of purchase to joehill@harpercollins.com with HORNS BOOKPLATE in the subject line. You must also include your mailing address in the email. Only one per household.

What qualifies as proof of purchase? A scan or photo of a receipt. Or, if you order from an online retailer, just forward your receipt from them. If you have safety concerns, feel free to delete any personal info from your receipt (although neither Amazon nor Barnes & Noble include your credit card info in their receipts). You can visit Hill's web page for more info, and, for the time being, the bookplate offer only applies to U.S. preorders of the HarperCollins trade paperback of HORNS.

{jcomments on}