

Darclight's sales art for "WOLF CREEK 2" and Joe Dante's "MONSTER LOVE"

Written by Samuel Zimmerman
Friday, 29 April 2011 14:45

Some early art for both the WOLF CREEK sequel and Joe Dante's upcoming MONSTER LOVE have surfaced.

Debuting at the official HQ of Darclight films and caught by a couple of the genre sites, the two posters are accompanied by larger synopses of both McLean and Dante's pictures. Both are currently in pre-production.

Per WOLF CREEK 2's official synopsis: "Lured by the promise of an authentic Australian holiday, backpackers RUTGER, KATARINA and PAUL visit the notorious Wolf Creek crater. Their dream Outback adventure soon becomes a horrific reality when they encounter the site's most infamous local, the last man any traveler to the vast and isolated region ever wants to meet; Mick Taylor (John Jarratt).

As the backpackers flee, Mick pursues them on an epic, white knuckled rampage across hostile wasteland. Only one will remain to be dragged back to his lair to witness the true magnitude of his monstrosity. And if the last man standing is to have any hope of surviving where no one has survived before, he'll have to use every ounce of cunning to outwit the man behind the monster, and become every bit as ruthless as the monster inside the man."

Darlight's sales art for "WOLF CREEK 2" and Joe Dante's "MONSTER LOVE"

Written by Samuel Zimmerman
Friday, 29 April 2011 14:45

Per MONSTER LOVE's: "A werewolf and a vampire fall in love, igniting a war between their respective communities. It's ROMEO AND JULIET with fangs.

After PETE, a young dogwalker, gets dumped by his girlfriend, his slacker buddies convince him to run naked through the city park. As the moon rises, the boys laugh, howl, and transform...Later, a distraught young woman named MAGGIE is contemplating suicide when she's surprised by an enormous wolf. She snarls, baring her vampire fangs. The wolf grins and barks: Let's play!

After a fierce, exhilarating chase through the park, Maggie falls asleep with the wolf -- and awakens in a naked young man's arms. It's Pete. And love at first sight.

Pete's werewolf pals and Maggie's upper-crust vampire clan are furious. And when some mangled bodies are discovered in the woods, Pete and Maggie must fight for their lives while grappling with the awful consequences of loving a monster."

For more on both films, check out what Dante told FANGORIA about MONSTER LOVE and what McLean had to say on WOLF CREEK 2.

Darclight's sales art for "WOLF CREEK 2" and Joe Dante's "MONSTER LOVE"

Written by Samuel Zimmerman
Friday, 29 April 2011 14:45

{comments on}