Written by FANGORIA Staff Tuesday, 14 June 2011 10:18

FANGORIA will host a free screening of the new infection thriller QUARANTINE 2: TERMINAL tonight at Los Angeles' Silent Movie Theater (611 North Fairfax Avenue; [323] 655-2510). The show starts at 7:30 p.m. and will be hosted by writer/director John Pogue (scripter of THE SKULLS and GHOST SHIP), who will participate in a Q&A after the screening. Stars Mercedes Masohn and Bre Blair, cinematographer Matt Irving and FX artist Robert Hall will also be attending. See below the jump for more details on the Fango premiere.

Fango's QUARANTINE 2 screening will be a free show; to obtain tickets, send an e-mail to fangoriascreening@gmail.com. You must list "QUARANTINE 2" as your subject line. Offer is good for you and one guest. Plus tell us your full name and whether you want to be added to the FANGORIA newsletter list so we can inform you about future Fango screenings and events. Names will be checked at the door. Offer is first come, first served, and we will confirm your RSVP. Seating is not guaranteed, however, so arrive early. This advance preview is sponsored by the Samuel Goldwyn Company, who open the sequel in theaters June 17.

In 2008's QUARANTINE, an apartment building in Los Angeles was quarantined by the CDC (Center for Disease Control), trapping the frightened residents inside as a deadly mutant virus turned the residents into rabid killers. QUARANTINE 2: TERMINAL picks up later that night at LAX, as passengers board a flight to Nashville. When a passenger becomes violently ill with a mysterious rabies-like virus, the plane makes an emergency landing at a large metropolitan airport. Jenny (Masohn, CBS's THREE RIVERS), a heroic yet inexperienced flight attendant, takes charge of the safety of her passengers. Relieved when a swarm of heavily equipped emergency vehicles, police units and the CDC arrive, Jenny and the passengers soon discover that they have been quarantined and are now trapped. Desperate to escape, Jenny enlists the help of one of the surviving passengers, a kindergarten teacher, Henry (Josh Cooke of I LOVE YOU MAN), to devise a plan to survive.

You can see the QUARANTINE 2 trailer in our previous item here . See you tonight!