Written by FANGORIA Staff Friday, 25 January 2013 11:53

FANGORIA will host a free 3D screening of the big-bug flick SPIDERS in Los Angeles this coming Wednesday, January 30 at Hollywood's Arclight Cinemas (6360 West Sunset Boulevard) at 7 p.m. The film's stars, STARSHIP TROOPERS' Patrick Muldoon and scream queen Christa Campbell (2000 MANIACS, DRIVE ANGRY), will host this special showing, and there will be a ton of free posters, DVDs and other Fango swag for fans. Genre vet Tibor Takacs, best known for THE GATE, I, MADMAN and MANSQUITO, directed SPIDERS.

The Fango SPIDERS screening will be a free event; to obtain tickets, send an e-mail to fangoriascreening@gmail.com. Offer is good for you and one guest. Plus tell us your full name, as names will be checked at the door. Offer is first come, first served, and we will confirm your RSVP. Seating is not guaranteed, however. This advance preview is presented by Millennium Entertainment.

Reminiscent of the beloved creature features of yesteryear, SPIDERS centers on a horde of mutant arachnids which are spawned by pieces of material from a disabled Soviet space station. With New York City threatened to be overrun by the big bugs, it's up to MTA supervisor Jason Cole (Muldoon) and health inspector Rachel Cole (Campbell) to prevent the queen spider from uniting with her eggs and creating a full-on army of 5-foot-tall crawling killers.

For a preview of the film, see Fango's interview with writer Dustin Warburton here and watch

"SPIDERS": Free FANGORIA 3D (!) screening in LA this Wednesday!

Written by FANGORIA Staff Friday, 25 January 2013 11:53

for an interview with Takacs on this site next week. Millennium Entertainment opens SPIDERS in theaters and premium VOD on February 8; the film then hits DVD and regular VOD on March 12. See you at the screening in LA on January 30!