Genre veteran Keith David sets up the scenario in a new trailer for the slasher film SMILEY, arriving in theaters next month. Jump past the jump to give it a look.

SMILEY, directed by Michael Gallagher from a script he wrote with UNDEAD OR ALIVE's Glasgow Phillips, is about a college student (Caitlin Gerard) who may be the next intended victim of Smiley, a serial killer who can be called up from the Internet to kill in the real world. It opens October 12 in special theatrical engagements throughout the U.S.; go here for more info, and see the movie's official website here
